SPECIAL REDUCTIONS.

During the Year 1919, The Los Angeles Times Printed More Lines of Paid Advertising Than Any Other Newspaper in the World. With But One Exception, and Surpassed Its Own 1912 Unequaled Record of 18,479,300 Lines.

The newspaper advertising record for another year has been written. The official returns are in, and every newspaper in the world, with but a single exception, fell behind The Times, as usual, in the volume of advertising printed in 1919.

With the single exception of the record of the Chicago Tribune for 1918, The Times' advertising record for 1919 of 20,133,066 lines was never before equaled in any single year in the history of the world by any other newspaper at home or abroad.

A total volume of 10,232,232 lines of paid advertising was printed in the Sunday Times alone in 1919, which is more than nine metropolitan newspapers out of every ten in America print three hundred and sixty-five days in the year.

In the local field The Times in 1919 led the Los Angeles Examiner in paid advertising by the enormous total of 7,749,830 lines. In "Want" or "Liner" advertising The Times led the Examiner by 2,531,306 lines, and printed 39,781 more separate advertisements, or practically double the number, published by that newspaper.

The assessed property valuation of Los Angeles county is greater than that of any other county in the United States, and greater than that of several other states. The Times' advertising supremacy is due to the fact that persons who spend money for newspaper publicity realize that The Times is the open door through which they can transmute their goods into Southern California and Pacific Coast homes.

Announced Retirement from Trade for Long Rest.

With a bullet hole through his head, A. K. Brauer, pioneer merchant tailor and head of the firm of A. K. Brauer & Co., Inc., was found at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the loft of the building in which his tailor shop was located at 345 South Spring street. A revolver was found beside the body.

Members of the family say that Mr. Brauer had worried a great deal of late over business conditions resulting from the labor strike which demoralized business here.

Motorman and Motorist are Held for Manslaughter.

A man and woman are dead and another man and woman are perhaps fatally injured as the result of three automobile accidents in the city last evening.

The dead:
MISS ELIZABETH HOSTY, 34 years old, 429 West Second street.
VINCENT TOMASHESKI, about 25 years old, who was employed as a dairy at Graham Station.

The injured, who have perhaps fatal injuries:
Mrs. Charity Van Aukin, 52 years old, here for the winter from St.

Marked by a carnival spirit unchecked by the semi-aridity, the coming of the new year and the departure of the old year, made by many to have been the most properous in the last decade, was celebrated by the people of the Southland last night in characteristic manner.

Mountain tops were illuminated,
the old year was cast into the sea, fairies with gilded wings stepped forth from monster shells, and wood nymphs danced a merry jig upon tables where merry-makers tossed their belts a notch and jumped in to make a night of it. Joyful watch parties were given and the streets filled with happy-hearted folk bent down on foreign knees.

Then the pages turned and the outstanding event of the year, the New Year's Eve ball, was held.

The new year was thus ushered in by the pages again hurrying and displaying the American, British and French flags. To the new strains of "How Dry I Am" the pages turned again and the "14th of January" songs, serious and despoised.

This affair took place simultaneously in the grill, dining room and ballroom. Entertainers passed from table to table and from room to night and several orchestras changed places continuously.

TO BREAK ENGAGEMENT.

Miss Edna Clancy, half sister of New, was on the witness stand for one hour and a half yesterday, and only at one time did she show any signs of breaking down. This came during the cross-examination by Mr. Woolwine, when the District Attorney asked if the witness had ever seen Freda Lesser alive after the third of July, on which occasion, Miss Clancy testified she had told Freda that she ought to break off her engagement to marry New. Tears came to Miss Clancy's eyes and her voice broke as she replied boy was a shock which proved to be almost a death blow to the family and two daughters to endure. The house was removed to the undertaking parlors of W. A. Brown and Company, 1001 North La Salle street.

Miss Ruth Brauer, a daughter, stated last night that her father had been in the hospital for about a week for three or four months, and that the company had talked of quitting business because the lease on the building had expired. But on Saturday evening Mr. Brauer gave a dinner for his employees at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and at that time he stated that he would continue business yesterday and take a six-month's rest in the hope of regaining his health.

He was about 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when he told his associates he was leaving for the funeral.

Mr. Brauer was born in Illinois

The important place which the ready response of investors has taken is evidenced by the tripling of the number of firms engaged in investment security business, and the fact that a number of large eastern houses have seen fit to open branch offices here.

READY INVESTMENT

The ready response which investors have made to the offering of high-class bonds, including the Victory Liberty loan, the Goodyear Victory bond, the United States financing, the Pacific Cotton Mills Southern California Edition and many other home and foreign propositions, is a certain evidence of prosperity of our people and their desire and willingness to trust their money in home enterprises.

For the closing month of 1918 notwithstanding the present war conditions, the construction of new buildings in other directions than in building, the reber of building permits issued by the department of buildings between January and December 1918 was 12,344, with a total valuation of $28,223,919. This exceeded by more than 50 per cent the figure of $18,226,000, the Bureau's prediction of a $25,000,000 total.

Compared with the total for 1918 of $28,223,919, the total valuation of $7,765,562 — the 1919 record shows a lead of approximately $20,000,000. Of the 1919 total, $1,000,000 was for the construction of new houses, exclusive of flats and apartment houses, according to Superintendent Sackin's report. The total for the year just closed was in excess of $2,000,000.

For the closing month of 1919, notwithstanding the present war conditions, the construction in other directions than in building, the re-

The street car was in charge of Motorman L. G. Lowery and Conductor J. W. Bacon. After investigation by detectives from University Police Station Motorman Lowery was held there on a charge of manslaughter. Conductor Bacon was released.

Miss Hosty received fatal injuries when she was struck by an automobile at the intersection of the street clerk, 1666 West Sixth street, as she was crossing Hill street at Second. She was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where she died fifteen minutes later.

inness of the Stock Exchange has been about three times greater than in any other year, and the building record area is no exception.

In banking circles the establishment of the Federal Reserve Branch, with headquarters in New York tomorrow, marks an epoch and makes the city a recognized financial center.

There has been no sign of distress in the building industry. The deposits and resources of the Los Angeles institutions at the close of the year far exceed anything in their history.

Commercial failures have been almost nil; in every line of business prosperity has been the rule. Collections have been fast and complete. Labor has been fully employed at high wage, and there has been no unemployment. Interest rates for legitimate expansion.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH.

"The year just closed was one of remarkably quick recovery from war conditions and showed phenomenal progress in the construction of buildings."

In my opinion the present building stride will be maintained throughout the winter of 1919. We will have a record number of operations within the next six or seven months. The situation, I believe, would be bettered by more stable prices of materials. It is hoped that unless prices become stabilized within the next six months there will be a lull in building activity.

The building industry is working under great pressure because of the demand for homes and commercial buildings. The situation would be bettered by more elastic labor conditions.

He thought Mr. Grider was going to turn to the left, but instead he turned to the right, the front wheel of Mr. Ramsey's machine then locked itself into the gutter and the car skidded. This caused Mr. Ramsey's car to swerve to the right. It struck Miss Hasty and she was killed instantly.

Ramsey and Grider were taken to Central Police Station and questioned, but were released when Detective Grider was satisfied. He decided, after an investigation, that Miss Hasty met her death as the result of a car accident.

Davies, who was about 35 years of age, lived for some months at the men's hotel conducted by the Birmingham firm of Kirke and Kirke here from Houston, Pa. and Kirke & Co., undertakers, of Santa Monica, to whose establishment Davies was taken after communicating with friends there. A card disclosed that Davies was a member of the Knickerbocker Pythian lodge of Cannanburg, Pa.

On the body also was found the name of the Birmingham Bible Institute as his address. It was stated there that he engaged a room at the men's hotel May 19 last, and that he was at the place ex-

EVERETT (Wash.) Dec. 31.—With the playing field in fine condition and both teams reported on edge for the game, everything is in readiness here for tomorrow's contest between the Everett High School and Scott High School teams of Toledo, except the choice of officials, and these will be selected today.

The game begins at noon. The Toledo team is due to arrive in the morning from Seattle, where it has spent two days. Everett claims the Coast championship and Scott the championship of the East and Middle West. Gov. Louis Hart and Henry Summell, president of the State University, will be among the guests of the local management at the game.

Judge Taff will hear what Charles F. Wilkins has to say before deciding the divorce suit of Minnie H. Wilkins, whose evidence he heard yesterday. That evening she said he drove up to the house with three men and demanded money. She told him she had put it in the bank.

"He said he was going to have some money that night and that I was going to get it for him. He went into a bedroom and shot me. I was frightened and fled with two children to a neighbor's house. He did not get the money," she concluded.

HEYDLER DESIRES MEETING POSTPONED.

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE.) NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—John Heydler, president of the National League, today suggested to Ben Johnson, president of the American League, that the annual meeting of the National Commission, scheduled for Monday in Cincinnati, be postponed. Heydler advised Johnson that it would be impossible for him to be in Cincinnati because of personal business.

The date of the annual meeting of the National Commission is fixed in the national agreement as the first Monday in January, when the two major league presidents shall elect a chairman. Heydler suggested that this meeting be held at the same time that the joint schedule committee meeting is held.

By a score of 45 to 17 the Young Men's Hebrew Association smashed its way to an easy victory over the Lincoln High School team in a basketball game played last Tuesday evening at the Jewish Alliance gymnasium, corner Temple street and Bunker Hill avenue.

The basketballs put up a pretty fight, but were outplayed by the Y.M.H.A. boys from the very beginning. The first half of the game ended with 15 to 12, in favor of the Y.M.H.A. In the last half, the Y.M.H.A. team quite ran away from the Lincoln five, the Y.M.H.A. scoring 28 points and the Lincoln High being shut out with 5 points.

We are depending upon you to maintain the high standard of quality and effectiveness of your university in the contest."

NO FOOTBALL TICKETS ON SALE AT PARK.

There will be no tickets on sale at Tournament Park for the Harvard-Oregon game today, A. J. Bertrapeau of the Tournament of Roses Association announced last night. This means that it will be useless for crowds to throng around the park unless pastebards have been secured. The tremendous demand for seats is an indication of the need in Pasadena of a stadium that will accommodate an assemblage of from 50,000 to 75,000 persons. It is estimated that fully twice that 50,000 tickets which have been sold could have been disposed of had the seating capacity warranted.

HARD TO BEAT BEZDEK SYSTEM.

constituting largely of the previous year's Oregon team, and drilled for the final contest by Hugo Besdek, trimmed the Camp Lewis eleven 15 to 1.

Last year the East scored a win when the Great Lakes team blanked the Mare Island Marines, 17 to 0 after the Leathernecks had been forced to play through a murderous schedule.

Today an Oregon team, inferior to the Oregon team of 1917, goes up against a Harvard eleven stronger than the 1917 team, and the result will be a test of the Harvard system.

Apparently the answer to our question of whether the Oregon-Besdek coaching system can repeat the triumph of the previous year is "No." Harvard will enter the game a 10-to-1 favorite, because the Besdek system has trained something that Pennsylvania did only half heartedly—and because the Oregon supporters have been certain quins about the 1920 team that they did not have in 1917.

The big event is the aerial race around the world, which must be completed between July 4, 1920, and January 1, 1921, and for which $1,000,000 in prizes will be offered.

TO SETTLE THE TITLE TODAY.

Aggies, 9 to 0. California and Stanford, who also defeated the Aggies, were seen in action here today, U.S.C. The southern eleven decisively defeated Stanford and a missed goal after touchdown alone prevented them from being California.

Exceptionally good team that the Aggies were, according to Southern California standards, nobody would accord them any business on the same gridiron with Harvard. And yet their record on the season's play was not far below that of the Aggies, as though the Lemon-Yellow would be compelled to play 50 per cent. better football than it did in the regular season.

Unquestionably, with the intensive preparations made for this game, they will play a better ball, but a 50 per cent. improvement is a big jump.

A LITTLE TOO MUCH.

Probably too much stress has been laid on "fighting spirit." This will not necessarily be a factor, as everything indicates that both elevens are about equally supplied with that noble quality. There are precious few college elevens without it.

Of the two elevens, Harvard gives the impression of greater confidence. The Cambridge men seem certain of themselves. The Oregonians are more grim. Their attitude is that of men who believe they have a fighting chance.

The day Harvard arrived Oregon gave the impression of having been considerably jarred by the size and general shape of the opposition. After the first shock, however, the Webfoots regained their poise. Then it was that a certain grimness settled down on these gridironers.

NOT OLD TIME.

Were old-time football in vogue there is not the shadow of a doubt that Harvard would defeat Oregon. Under the open game form shows a tendency to fluctuate, giving to the dope an element of instability. One would be inclined to predict, however, that should Oregon win it will be by a narrow margin, with the scoring exceedingly light on both sides.

Harvard gives the impression of a team, which, if off form, would prove tremendously disappointing because so imposing in appearance, but which, if on edge, would crash through for a heavy count, and convert the contest into sort of a debacle.

MUCH CLEARER.

The situation will be much clearer this afternoon after the Crimson line has been tested in the opposition for fifteen minutes. Sizing up the two lines, a person gets the idea that the Oregon forwards would be justified in demanding higher pay and longer hours.

Probably there has been a tendency to hear down too persistently on this "one-man team" thing. There are few "one-man teams."

IDEOMOTOR ACTIVITY PROCLAIMS FAN.

BY EUGENE W. NIXON.

Who gets the good out of a championship football game or a world's series baseball contest, or a wrestling match or a dog fight? Well, the professor of invertebrate archaeology was telling me the other day that his principal criticism of our present system of athletic contests is that two, or eighteen, or twenty-two men out of the field get all the exercise, and 100 or 1000 of 50,000 sit in the stands and derive no physical benefit from the contest.

In consideration of this criticism let us ask some further questions. If you were sitting in the grand stand and Eddie Casey started on a long run around left end, and just then you leaned over and gave you a tremendous shove, would you take it to mean that the lady was a tramp, or that she was one of these vampirish you have read about? And would you begin to curl your mustaches and fiddle with your necktie and look pretty? You would not. If you noticed the incident at all, you would realize that the lady was entirely oblivious of your presence and that she was merely running "interference" for Eddie.

You wouldn't spend a second looking heroic. On the contrary, you would likely jump to your feet with every muscle tensed; you would knock off the lady's hat with your elbow, kick the man in front of you in the floating ribs, pound one clenched fist against the palm of the other hand, and scream, "Tackle that bird, you poor boob!"

Who got the exercise out of that end run? Casey and his crew, of course, and Bill Steers and his gang. But really, the young lady was in the interference, and you helped to make the tackle, and 50,000 of the rest of us got more real exercise out even figuratively. True, Casey and Steers are exceptional performers, but either eleven would shape up far from poor without either of them. Casey has the advantage in playing under the protection of that tremendous forward barrier.

Those who have seen Harvard in competition say that Eddie is used rather infrequently. In most of the games he either was saved for two or three special plays, or was so well covered that he could not often get away.

AN EDGE HERE.

Oregon, judging by the last workout, still maintains its edge in punting and drop-kicking. Under the Harvard system, however, in punting, less attention is paid to distance than to altitude and accuracy. Harvard is generally satisfied with a forty-yard gain on a punt of height and so well placed as to reduce the chance of the ball being run back for a punt.

Pastebord profiteers, which is highbrow for ticket scalpers, were posted in the downtown section last night. Let us hope that it doesn't happen again. Also, if these super-climates are to be of annual recurrence, somebody should get busy and build a stadium or scoop out a bowl with a capacity of at least 75,000. That many want to see the game today, and less than 31,000 will get in. During the past week 3394 extra seats have been nailed onto the edge of the arena. This makes the total capacity 30,994. The other four guys, who would bring the total attendance up to 35,000, are still waiting.

No, the players are not the ones who get good out of the game. Look over the seats at the park and you will find them worn and shiny; there are no splinters left; they have all been carried away by the enthusiastic fans, who have been sliding all over them during the game. And you will find that the enthusiasts like Bob Fisher and Huntington even have to have their trousers reinforced with leather at strategic points.

And if you go to the game and get kicked in the shin and are shoved clear out of your seat, let yourself get peeved, but let it go and get into the game. For if you get into the interference or make the tackle or boost the runner over the bar or run to see the fight, you are getting the same thing that the contestants get, and are helping to justify your admission.

Plain Talk About Cold Storage and Its Relation to High Prices

I am not a political economist—nor do I make a pretense of knowing anything about the subject.

On the other hand, I am a cold storage man.

For the past 25 years I have been handling cold storage products in this city and let me say right here that during all that time I have never known an instance of hoarding through cold storage on the part of Los Angeles wholesale merchants or dealers.

There has been lots of talk about the cold storage menace and how high prices are maintained by such means.

I bought this advertising space for the sole purpose of telling the public just what cold storage is and how it is used; and just what it has to do with our local prices for foodstuffs.

In the first place let us consider the purpose of cold storage.

The farmer stacks his hay, he stores corn in his cribs, and tries to keep his winter vegetables by putting them down in a cold cellar. His grain is stored in elevators. He puts his money in the bank.

Cities impound water in reservoirs.

Even the wild creatures in the wood lay by a store of provisions for the winter.

Why is all this done?

To provide in time of plenty against periods of want.

And that is exactly the use of cold storage—to preserve perishable products from a period of over-production to a period of under-production.

For instance, without cold storage, fully seventy-five per cent. of the apple crop would never reach the consumer. Apples would glut the market in October and November and by January be entirely gone. Cold storage, on the other hand, preserves the excess part of the crop and enables the public to have apples practically the year round.

The same is true of butter and eggs and cheese—all products of which there are seasons of over-production, especially in other parts of the country.

"That may all be very true," you say "but what about the products that have for years been stored on a purely speculative basis?"

To which I can truthfully answer, that in my experience, Los Angeles merchants have never cold stored perishable food products for other than their actual requirements during periods of non-production.

Dealers cannot carry food products in storage from one season into another without losing money, as the cost of the stored product plus interest and insurance would be greater than the price ruling at the time of new or fresh production.

No intelligent merchant puts more goods in storage than his trade will normally consume—it would prove a losing proposition for him.

And right here I want to state that all the storage man sells is service.

Not one of the cold storage warehouses in Los Angeles has a dollar's interest in the commodity warehoused. The function of the cold storage plant is simply to rent space and maintain proper temperatures for the preservation of perishable products.

There is no secret about the business.

In California all cold storage plants are classed as public utilities and are under the supervision of the State Railroad Commission. Furthermore each cold storage warehouse is under license by the State Board of Health—a license which is renewable each year.

Every ninety days a complete report of warehouse contents is filed with the State Board of Health.

Every two weeks a full report is filed with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Every Thursday of each week a similar report is filed with the Los Angeles Produce Exchange, and is available to the public and press. These reports have been filed for the past five years and could have been published at any time had the newspapers desired to give out the information.

These reports are made for the benefit of the public. They tell exactly what goods are in cold storage. There is not a cold storage man who would not welcome a careful study of these reports on the part of the public.

It would settle a good many of these questions which keep coming up. The reader might learn, for instance that Los Angeles has the best cold storage facilities in the United States.

That goods in storage here are in many instances owned in the East and are shipped from this point to Victoria, Portland, Seattle, Chicago, El Paso, Boston, New York, Kansas City and many other points.

That cold storage plants are maintained in Los Angeles not only for the purpose of supplying our own citizens, but to fulfill our civic duty as a great distributing point. We should feel proud of the fact. Not only do the cold storage plants hold fruits and produce for our own dealers, but a great deal of the products grown and produced in this and other sections are held in Los Angeles for distribution to other points.

100 carloads of onions are now warehoused in cold storage here for shipment to eastern points and owners.

There is no cheese factory in Southern California. All the cheese consumed in Los Angeles and vicinity comes here from Oregon, Northern California and Wisconsin. Therefore, cheese must be held in cold storage in Los Angeles for our own consumption.

One hundred and twenty-five carloads of Bellefleur apples were shipped to Los Angeles for cold storage during the month of September by Watsonville growers. These shipments were caused by the absolute lack of adequate transportation facilities to move this crop of fruit to eastern markets. These apples were shipped here in box cars—any way to get them here—and were cold stored as a result of the inability of the U. S. Railroad Administration to furnish the growers and packers with refrigerator cars, without which the Bellefleur apples could not be shipped to Eastern points.

A few years ago California imported eggs from Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota—hundreds of cars annually. At the present time, the eggs produced in the vicinity of Los Angeles are the finest raised anywhere in the United States. These eggs command as high as $1.15 per dozen in New York. In other words, California supplies the great city of New York with eggs and our own local prices are always lower, by at least 10c to 20c per dozen than the eastern cities, that use white eggs.

Pears are now held in Los Angeles cold storage plants by Mexican dealers. This fruit is subject to owner's orders for shipment into Mexico as the demand warrants.

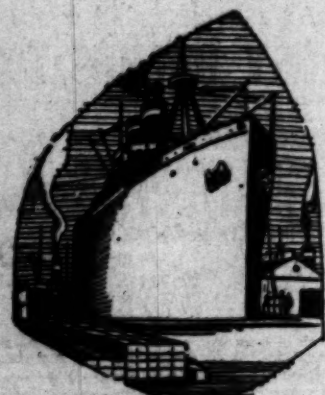

Some idea of the rise in price of milk products may be gained from the fact that for the first nine months of 1919, 2,550,000.000 pounds of milk products were exported from the United States for foreign consumption. We cannot feed the world and at the same time enjoy low prices at home on butter and cheese.

I have stated the above facts because I want to make clear to the people of Los Angeles the position of the cold storage plants and their relation to the community.

During all the agitation in regard to cold storage, and in spite of the fact that the plant, of which I happen to be president, is open to the public from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. every day, no representative of any civic organization has called to learn at first hand, just what the conditions were regarding cold storage.

Let me repeat again that every Thursday there is a report filed at the Los Angeles Produce Exchange by all cold storage plants which tells exactly the total amount of butter, eggs, cheese, apples, onions and potatoes in cold storage in the city.

The cold storage business stands on its own merits.

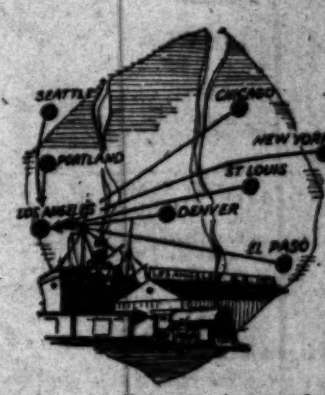

During the first nine months of 1919, 2,550,000.000 pounds of milk products were exported from the United States to Europe—thus demonstrating the cost of our own butter and cheese.

California is the greatest white egg producing State in the Union. Eggs raised in this vicinity are in tremendous demand at high prices in the West. Still, the year around, Los Angeles pays less than New York.

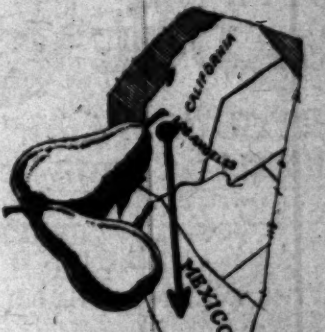

One hundred twenty-five carloads of Bellefleur apples were shipped to Los Angeles cold storage plants by Watsonville growers during the month of September. Due to the inability of the U. S. Railroad Administration to furnish the growers and packers with refrigerator cars, without which the Bellefleur apples could not be shipped to Eastern points.

Thousands of cases of eggs are held in Los Angeles cold storage warehouses by owners for shipment to Seattle, Chicago, El Paso, New York and other cities.

Because of non-production locally, cold storage warehouses in Los Angeles hold thousands of pounds of cheese products from Oregon, Northern California and Wisconsin for our local consumers.

Dealers from Mexico store local fruit in Los Angeles warehouses for shipment into Mexican territory.

Toledo Boys do not Outweigh Washington Lads.

EVERETT (Wash.) Dec. 31.—With the playing field in fine condition and both teams reported on edge for the game, everything is in readiness here for tomorrow's contest between the Everett High School and Scott High School teams of Toledo, except the choice of officials, and these will be selected today.

The game begins at noon. The Toledo team is due to arrive in the morning from Seattle, where it has spent two days. Everett claims the Coast championship and Scott the championship of the East and Middle West. Gov. Louis Hart and Harry Summitt, president of the State University, will be among the guests of the local management at the game.

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 31.—Toledo's crack high school football team worked out here today for its intercollegiate championship game with the Everett High School at Everett, Wash., tomorrow.

Seattle football men who watched the visitors work here yesterday, and who have seen Everett today brand as false the reports that the Toledo boys outweigh the Washington State players several pounds to the man. Several days ago it was announced the Ohio eleven would have a big advantage in weight.

Officials of the rival teams were to meet here today for a final conference on rules and officials.

Justice Taft will hear what Charles P. Wilkins has to say before deciding the divorce suit of Minnie H. Wilkins, whose evidence he heard yesterday. "That evening she said he drove up to the house with three men and demanded money. She told him she had put it in the bank.

"He said he was going to have some money that night and that I was going to get it for him. He went into a bedroom and got a shotgun. I was frightened and fled with the children to a neighbor's house. He did not get the money," she concluded.

PORTLAND, Dec. 31.—Charles Hall, president, and George Quayle, secretary of the Oregon Chamber of Commerce, today sent to Bill Hayward, trainer of the University of Oregon football team, this telegram to be transmitted to the players before their game tomorrow with Harvard University at Pasadena:

"The Oregon State Chamber of Commerce sends greetings and a reminder to the members of the team that Oregon was first in Liberty Loans, Red Cross and kindred activities and Oregon soldiers had the best record for physical fitness. "We are depending upon you to maintain the high standard of quality and effectiveness of your university in the contest."

Breakneck Whirlings Expected to be on Tap.

Tomorrow is the day of the qualification at Ascot Speedway for the 100-mile motorcycle championship to be held Sunday afternoon. Although the 48-second trial will be only play for the riders who have been jaunting along under 44, there will be some terrific speed turned loose. With the official time, Robert McC. Granger directing the watches, the riders will try to far some fragments of seconds off the mark with which they have been credited in the unofficial practice.

Each succeeding day has brought faster times and the riders have prepared for a hard ride tomorrow for the respective miles will determine the starting positions. There has been a scramble among the riders to get the honor position of pacing the field and tomorrow's tests will determine it.

AFTER THE HORROR.

It was announced yesterday by Chairman George R. Bentel of the Ascot Speedway Association that the race would be run at the finish of the four horse event. This will be a 10-to-1 favorite, because the Crimons eleven has trained something that Pennsylvania did not have in 1917.

There is no way of comparing the players man for man in the Oregon team, but we do know that man for man the Oregon team will not be up with the team that whipped Penn.

NO FOOTBALL TICKETS ON SALE AT PARK.

There will be no tickets on sale at Tournament Park for the Harvard-Oregon game today, A. J. Benson, of the Tournament of Roses Association announced last night. This means that it will be useless for crowds to throng around the park unless pasteborders have been secured.

The tremendous demand for seats is an indication of the need in Pasadena of a stadium that will accommodate an assemblage of from 50,000 to 75,000 persons. It is estimated that fully twice that number of tickets which have been sold could have been disposed of had the seating capacity warranted.

Of the players only Nelson and Carpenter were with New York in New York.

HARD TO BEAT BEZDEK SYSTEM.

consisting largely of the previous year's Oregon team, and drilled for the final contest at Camp Lewis eleven 15 to 1.

Last year the East scored a win when the Great Lakes team blanked the Mare Island Marines, 17 to 0 after the Leathernecks had been forced to play through a murderous schedule.

Today an Oregon team, inferior to the Oregon team of 1917, goes up against a Harvard eleven stronger than the Penn eleven that bowed to the superior skill of the Lemon Yellow three years ago.

Apparently the answer to our question of whether the Oregon-Bezdek coaching system can repeat today is "No." Harvard will enter the game a 10-to-1 favorite, because the Crimons eleven has trained something that Pennsylvania did not have in 1917.

There is no way of comparing the players man for man in the Oregon team, but we do know that man for man the Oregon team will not be up with the team that whipped Penn.

Oregon routers are not predicting victory, but they believe that the charge of the beefy Harvard line. If Oregon's line can hold, the Crimons will not celebrate a victory tonight.

To offset Harvard's expected superiority in the line Coach Hussey will place Al Harding's place at left guard, and "Spike" Leslie will begin the contest at left tackle, and both were too good to keep out of the game, so Huntington solved the problem by using both men.

This was the only last minute change in the Oregon line-up, and that was reported from the Harvard camp at the Hotel Raymond last night.

Coach Fisher of Harvard starts his offensive eleven, leaving Humphrey, the defensive half, on the side lines. Hubbard continues to remain at guard in place of Felson Brown, who outweighs him some ten pounds.

In the matter of weight Oregon will be outclassed about ten pounds to the man on the line, according to the figures that have been given out. Oregon had a five-pound advantage in the backfield until Coach Fisher inserted Arnold Horvess at left half, vice Humphrey. The latter weighs 175, while Horvess weighs 160.

Consequently, by the Crimons has a slight edge here.

Foreign events include an international contest in France, an international marine flying contest in Italy, and the Cuban aerial contests to be held in Havana, February 1 to March 1.

TO SETTLE THE TITLE TODAY.

Aggies, 9 to 6. California, and Stanford, who also defeated the Aggies, were seen in action here against U.S.C. The southern eleven decisively defeated Stanford and a missed goal after touchdown alone prevented them from tying California.

Exceptionally good team that the Trojans were, according to Southern California observers, who would accord them any business on the same gridiron with Harvard. And yet their record on the season's play was not far below that of Oregon. Looks as though the Lemon-Yellow would be compelled to play 50 per cent better football than it did in the regular schedule.

Unquestionably, with the intensive preparations made for this game, they will play better ball, but a 50 per cent improvement is a big jump.

A LITTLE TOO MUCH.

Probably too much stress has been laid on "fighting spirit." This will not necessarily be a factor, as everything indicates that both elevens are about equally supplied with that noble quality. There are a few college elevens without it.

Of the two elevens, Harvard gives the impression of being the better team. The Cambridge men seem certain of themselves. The Oregonians are more grim. Their attitude is that of men who believe they have a fighting chance. The day Harvard arrived Oregon gave the impression of having been considerably jarred by the size and general shape of the opposition. After the first shock, however, the Webfoots regained their poise. Then it was that a certain grimness settled down on these gridironers.

NOT OLD TIME.

Were old-time football in vogue there is not the shadow of a doubt that Harvard would defeat Oregon. Under the open game form shows a tendency to fluctuate, giving to the dope an element of instability. One would be inclined to predict, however, that should Oregon win it will be by a narrow margin, with the scoring exceedingly light on both sides. Harvard gives the impression of a team, which, if off form, would prove tremendously disappointing because so imposing in appearance, but which, if on edge, would crash through for a heavy count, and convert the contest into sort of a cleaver.

MUCH CLARER.

The situation will be much clearer this afternoon after the Crimons line has been leaning on the opposition for fifteen minutes. Singing up the two lines, a person gets the idea that the Oregon forwards would be justified in demanding higher pay and shorter hours.

Probably there has been a tendency to hear down too persistent on this "one-man team" thing. There are few "one-man teams."

IDEOMOTOR ACTIVITY PROCLAIMS FAN.

BY EUGENE W. NIXON.

Who gets the good out of a championship football game or a world's series baseball contest, or a wrestling match or a dog fight? Well, the professor of Invertebrate Archaeology was telling me the other day that his principal criticism of our present system of athletic contests is that two, or eighteen, or twenty-two men out on the field get all the exercise, that 100 or 1000 of 50,000 sit in the stands and derive no physical benefit from the contest.

In consideration of this criticism let us ask some further questions. If you were sitting in the grand stand and Eddie Casey started on a long run around left end, and just then the young lady on the other side of you leaned over and gave you a tremendous shove, would you take it to mean that she was one of these vampires you have read about? And would you begin to curl your mouth and fiddle with your necktie and look pretty? You would not, if you noticed the incident at all, you would realize that the lady was entirely oblivious of your presence and that she was merely rugging interference for Eddie.

You wouldn't spend a second looking hard at the contest, you would likely jump to your feet with every muscle tensed; you would kick off the lady's hat with your elbow, kick the man in front of you in the floating ribs, pound one clenched fist against the palm of the other hand, and scream, "Tackle that bird, you poor boob!"

"Who got the exercise out of that end run?" Casey and his crew, of course, and Bill Steers and his gang. But really, the young lady was in the interference, and you helped to make the tackle, and 50,000 of the rest of us got more real exercise out even figuratively. True, Casey and Steers are exceptional performers, but either eleven would shape up far from poor without either of them. Casey has the advantage in playing under the protection of that tremendous forward barrier. Those who have seen Harvard in competition say that Eddie is used infrequently. In most of the games he either was saved for two or three special plays, or was so well covered that he could not often get away.

AN EDGE HERE.

Oregon, judging by the last workout, still maintains its edge in punting and drop-kicking. In the Harvard system, however, in punting, less attention is paid to distance than to altitude and accuracy. Harvard is generally satisfied with a forty-yard gain on a punt of a height and so well placed as to reduce the chance of the ball being run back in.

Pasteborder profiteers, which is highbrow for ticket scalpers, were active in the downtown section last night. Let us hope that it doesn't happen again. Also, if these super-clasas are to be of annual recurrence, somebody should get busy had build a stratosphere soap for this game, with a capacity of at least 75,000. That many want to see the game, and less than 12,000 will get in. During the past week 2500 extra seats have been nailed onto the edge of the arena. This makes the total capacity 35,998. The other four guys who would bring the total attendance up to around 31,000 won't be able to see the game, as nobody will be allowed to stand up inside, or sit two in a berth.

MIND A BLANK, SEEKS CHURCH.

Victim of Amnesia Aimlessly Wanders Along Aisle.

Engineer Remembers Naught Since Family Row.

Says Something Snapped, Left Detroit in November.

Found aimlessly wandering up and down the great aisle of St. Joseph's Church at Twelfth and Los Angeles streets, Oren G. Frizzle, 37 years of age, formerly superintendent for the A. N. Smith Construction Company of Detroit, was taken yesterday last night by Police Officers Post and Henley. He was taken to Central Station in an apparent case, but from his fragmentary remarks and from papers in his possession the police are able to piece together something about his travels since he left his wife and four boys in their Detroit home on November 13 and wandered about the West while a victim of amnesia. He remembers little concerning where he has been, and what has happened to him since leaving Detroit. Later Mr. Frizzle was taken to the psychiatric ward of the County Hospital for medical treatment and observation.

The construction engineer told the police that a violent quarrel with his wife, Mrs. Anna Frizzle, in the morning of November 13 was the cause of his leaving his home at 541 Canby street, Detroit. He plaintively charged that his wife had "nagged" him for some time past. They have four children, all boys, he said. Their names and ages are: Adelbert, 12; Ralph, 11; William, 8; and Harold, 5. Mr. Frizzle said he believed his wife now lives in St. Clair, Mich., but could not say why he thought she had moved there.

DESERTER FAMILY.
"I was planning to build a new home in Detroit until this last quarrel with my wife took place," Mr. Frizzle said, producing some papers from his coat pocket which he drew himself. "But after our last argument I seemed to me that I had entered all that I could stand. Something seemed to snap within me. I can't positively remember anything that happened since then."

From a traveler's insurance policy issued in Mr. Frizzle's pocket the police learned that he left Detroit at 10 a. m. of November 13 for Seattle, but had his ticket corrected for San Francisco later.

The wandering engineer remembers dimly that he was in San Francisco on or about November 21. He cannot say what he did while there. He then came to Los Angeles. Papers in his possession show that he stayed at a room at the Roslyn Hotel on December 11 and another receipt shows that he had a room at the Roslyn Hotel, 3144 Hope street, from December 1 to December 23.

CHECK TO WIFE.
At Central Station the officers found $1.15 in his pockets. Mr. Frizzle claimed that he had "invested" $1.15 in various business deals while here, but has no recollection of the nature of the deals nor with whom he had dealt. Stubs in his shoe's book show that on the day that he left Detroit he made out a check to his wife for his entire bank balance.

The police telegraphed to Detroit and to St. Clair, Mich., last night, asking the authorities to aid in locating this engineer's wife and children.

AGAINST WATERWORKS.

Taxpayer Sues to Enjoin Burbank from Selling Bond Issue.

The suit in which J. W. Fawkes, Jr., asks to enjoin the city of Burbank from disposing of the $75,000 bonds voted in November for the purpose of constructing a waterworks system for the city, was continued yesterday in Judge Jackson's court until tomorrow.

In this action, Mr. Fawkes, a taxpayer, claims that Burbank proposes to divert water from the Los Angeles River for the water system upon which the city of Los Angeles has rights.

The court is asked to restrain the city of Burbank from carrying out its plans to build the system and from levying and collecting taxes to pay the principal and interest on the bonds.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

Up-to-Date:
Hoops? Hoops! Hoops! Every new importation brings them in more decided form. Hoops, but not the old-time "kiddy's" Ladies' Book affairs. No, no! Just the oddest, hippest, so-differentest affairs! Describe them? Can't. But they revolutionize the silhouette. Still—do not hold your breath in anxiety—they are likely to confine themselves to the imported costume. Scarcely a matter of apprehension for every mother's daughter. Not a general epidemic—or, secure, if you choose to look at it that way.

The veils with colored dots. These may be used to bring out the eyes and to enhance the complexion, provided the proper color in dots is chosen. The chintilly dots in king's blue are lovely on a blue-eyed girl; those with yellow, good for the dark-eyed beauty. Of course, the mesh must be equally well chosen. The new Russian mesh is not by any means becoming to every face.

Now is the Time to Buy:

All that Santa forgot to put in your wishing—stocking. And, the best of it is that you may purchase it for half. Your Christmas money will go doubly far, if you study matters carefully and go to the for-halving sales to make your selections.

The odd golf strand which you thought to find in your Christmas stocking and sought for in vain it is in that halving sale.

The evening wrap that you were wanting and denied yourself, having other uses for pre-Christmas money. It is available for half.

The nappery of fine embroidery which you have long desired, to give that charming cachet to your luncheon table or for afternoon tea—you may "bring your own" to your table, now; and do it for much less than before the holidays.

And so on—down—the list.

The At-Halves Have It!

For, if you observe at all, you must concede that the at-halves have it in the vote for lower prices, since the holidays. And by this vote, you are elected to considerable savings.

At Home.

Do you ever wish that the good old times of New Year's calling could be restored? Is not their passing, the passing of genuine hospitality?

Sometimes I wonder. Are we really losing the true home spirit? How few entertain in the one-time manner. In the home? It is "meet me at the club," or "I'd like to have you lunch with me at the so-and-so." Think how many of your so-called friends have never entered the portals of your home. Year in, year out, you meet them, greet them, like them; possibly are even fond of them, and yet—you do not know each other. For you never know a person until you have passed inside his door. What a privilege to be invited into the home of a friend! To share his surroundings, to breathe the sacred air of his domain. For that which surrounds him, or her in the so intimate precincts are the emanations of the innermost being. This picture, that rug, the furniture, the very plates upon which the food is placed are there because of some behest from out the individuality of the presiding genius of the place. At least, this should be so; and so in a genuine home. To be invited there is to be taken into the confidence of your friend. No wonder that the Arabs, with high ideals of hospitality, considered that partaking of food in the home of a friend precluded betrayal, henceforth, and even forevermore.

Ostrich Hiding.

Hide the hide with ostrich hues—to put it very plainly and unpoetically—is the latest way of finishing some of the French evening

DISCIPLINE SAVES PANIC.

With the flames eating their way through the walls and floors of the Fremont-avenue school yesterday morning, more than 500 children marched from the frame structure to music played on the school piano by one of the teachers. All the children were on the sidewalk in front of the building two minutes after the fire alarm had been sounded by Miss Minnie Holloway, a teacher. Firemen who extinguished the blaze, which started by an over-heated stove, stated the loss was about $1000.

The blaze was discovered during one of the morning classes, when Miss Holloway saw flames flickering in the room.

A single gorgeous plume extending across the shoulder and down one side of the decollete—the extremely decollete—is the only material observable—on that side of the neck, at least.

RETIRED HOTEL MAN DIES FROM INJURIES.

DEAFNESS PREVENTS HIM FROM HEARING WARNING BELL OF STREET CAR.

Harvey S. Denison, 68 years old, of 1041 South Oxford avenue, a retired hotel owner of Riverside, was killed yesterday by a street car on Tenth street and Oxford avenue. The police think his slight deafness prevented him from hearing the warning bell. Mr. Denison died at the Receiving Hospital as a result of a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

According to the police, Denison was attempting to cross Tenth street at Oxford avenue, on his way to the city. He stepped onto the street-car tracks in front of the east-bound San Pedro street car and failed to pay any attention to the warning bell of the motorman. The street car hurled him a distance of fifteen feet. He leaves a widow in this city, two sons and a daughter.

WILL YOU have a sound and helpful banking connection during 1920? Now is the time to arrange for it.

Present conditions can scarcely be called "normal;" further changes may be expected.

Good reasons always for favorable banking arrangements—extra good reasons now.

Judge this Bank by its performance. A background of twenty-nine years of steady, persistent, well-digested growth lies behind it. Never have its resources been larger, its position stronger, its sphere of influence wider and more powerful, than at the present time.

Wise, prudent co-operation with its Customers and Depositors has been, and is, the ruling factor in this Bank's success. It has consistently recognized that the interests of its Customers, and its own interests, are mutual—that its service is really a kind of "public service."

Shall we work together during 1920? We will strive to carry our full share of the load, to the fullest extent consistent with sound legal and banking practice.

CENSUS BEGINS TOMORROW.

Around Seven Hundred Thousand Noses will be Counted in the City.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing for two weeks representatives of Uncle Sam will canvass Los Angeles and surrounding territory for a complete enumeration of the population for the government. Under the Federal Constitution the census is taken every ten years, to determine the representation of the various States in the House of Representatives.

Philip F. Dodson is supervisor for Los Angeles county, and will have 640 enumerators start work tomorrow morning. There will be 349 of these in Los Angeles. Headquarters for the census department in Los Angeles have been established at 329 to 331 Merchants' Trust Building, where inspectors and clerks have been working day and night preparing for the work.

Proclamations by President Wilson have been posted the country over, calling on the people to cooperate with the census department and answer all questions asked by the enumerators. There is a penalty for not answering questions willingly and accurately.

PURPOSE OF CENSUS.

The sole purpose of the census is to secure general statistical information regarding the population and resources of the country, and replies are required from individuals only to permit the compilation of such general statistics. No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required.

Supervisor Dodson said yesterday that frequently many persons have an idea that the census has something to do with military service or taxation. This is erroneous, he said, as it has nothing to do with military service, with the compilation of school attendance, with the regulation of immigration, or with the enforcement of any national, State or local law or ordinance, and furthermore the census enumerators are prohibited from disclosing any information which comes to them.

If Los Angeles is to maintain its record of doubling its population every ten years for the past three decades, it will have to show a population of 618,395, and the county will have to show 1,098,382.

CHAMBER TO AID.

In connection with the taking of the census the Chamber of Commerce has sounded a warning to residents of the city. This is not to tell the census enumerator that their home is in some other part of the United States, when in reality they are living here and expect to continue living here. Los Angeles normally has a huge floating population and it is to be adequately represented in the 1920 count everyone who really lives here must so report. The Chamber is urging its membership and citizens generally to co-operate to the fullest extent in the census taking, so that the count will be accurate and the city have the backing of Uncle Sam in its claims for population.

Chamber officials are confident that there are approximately 700,000 people living in the city now, but it is not expected that all of these will report their homes here. Residents are urged to report on members of their family who may be absent and employees who may be traveling. There will not be another census for ten years and Los Angeles must accept the government figures on its population for 1920. The chamber officials point out that the census taker wants the usual residence, not the legal residence, a point which interested Easterners living here are asked to remember. Los Angeles probably has more people under the usual residence

PLANS FOR BIG RANCH MAPPED.

Buyers Outline Palos Verde Development Programme.

Wire also Confirms News of Huge Vanderlip Sale.

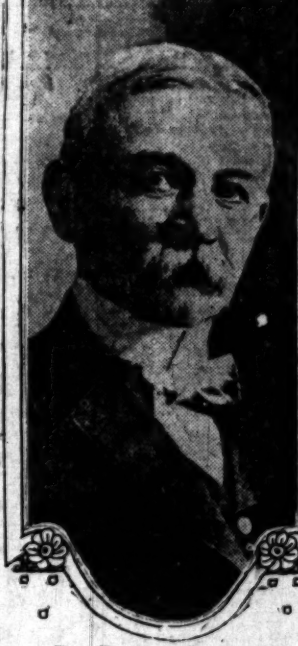

Search for Oil will Follow Seaside Improvements.

Confirmation of the sale of the 16,000-acre Palos Verde Ranch by Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York, to R. P. Tucker and a group of eastern capitalists, came yesterday to Ferdinand R. Bain, president of the Southern Counties Gas Company, in a telegram from a member of the syndicate. While Mr. Bain said he was not at liberty to divulge the contents of the telegram, he explained that in it was outlined to an extent the plans of the new owners to develop the property. They invited him to become a participant.

From other sources it was learned that R. P. Tucker, who directly negotiated the purchase from Mr. Vanderlip, at a price approximating $5,000,000, expects to have a personal representative in Los Angeles soon to make a thorough survey of the property, with a view to particularly to developing its oil producing possibilities. Meantime plans will, it is said, be prepared for the development of the ocean side of the tract, including a club-house, hotel and a system of scenic roadways connecting with the new State highway, which will run from San Juan Capistrano to Ventura along the ocean front.

While several geological investigations have been made to determine the oil-bearing capacity of the Standard Oil and one by the Commonwealth Company, the new owners will make an independent examination. This intention is based on the fact that, in connection with the examination made by Mr. Tucker's representative to advise as to the purchase of the ranch, a Los Angeles geologist prepared a report which was highly favorable from the standpoint of oil prospects. He pointed out that, in his belief, an extension of the oil-bearing tract and that it can be reached by proper drilling.

In the original sale of this big property, prior to the deal immediately subsequent by which it was turned over to the eastern syndicate, Mr. Vanderlip was represented by R. F. Crittenden of Bryan and Bradford of this city.

Dr. Dudley Stewart.

OLD-TIME OFFICIAL AND OIL MAN TAKEN.

DR. D. W. STEWART, CREATOR OF PARKS, DRUGGIST AND PROMOTER, IS DEAD.

Dr. Dudley W. Stewart, former official creator of Southern California parks, once owner of a chain of drug stores and later a pioneer oil operator of note, died yesterday at his home, 918 South Hoover street. He was perhaps best known as the man who developed oil wells in the ocean at Summerland.

In 1887 Dr. Stewart established a drug store at Redlands. He promoted the Casa Loma Hotel at that place and was largely responsible for the establishment of the storm drain which protects that city. At one time he owned a string of drug stores in Southern California cities.

After coming to this city, he was made a park commissioner and was reappointed by Mayor Snyder, who was then serving his first term as the city's chief executive.

As park commissioner, Dr. Stewart was largely responsible for the creation of Sycamore Grove and Sunset Park.

He later went into the oil business, became president of the company at Summerland, and formed another company which put in the Harlicks which have since stood at Temple and Belmont streets.

Dr. Stewart was born at Athens, O., in 1854. He conducted a pharmacy in Des Moines for many years, was collector of internal revenue there under President Cleveland, and later served as sheriff of Polk county, Iowa.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. Lucy Hawley, who resides at the South Hoover-street address. Funeral services will be conducted at the Breese chapel, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The body will be shipped to Des Moines for burial.

PASSENGER INJURED.

Unidentified Man May Die After Fall From Street Car.

An unidentified workman, apparently between 55 and 60 years old, was probably fatally injured when he fell off the rear platform of a Los Angeles Railway street car at Santa Barbara and Vermont avenues, last night. In falling he hit his head on the pavement and was rendered unconscious. At the Receiving Hospital it was stated that he had received a basal fracture of the skull that would probably prove fatal.

The only clue to his identity are the initials "H. J." on the lunch box he was carrying. The lunch box was full, indicating that he was on his way to work when the accident occurred. He was dressed in a faded, street-car company's uniform, a gray sweater and overalls. A noticeable feature was his thick black hair, just beginning to turn gray. He also had a heavy mustache.

GET FIFTY GALLONS OF FINE OLD WINE.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31.—Arrested on suspicion of being dealers and unable to give straightforward stories which would satisfy the police, two young Wilmington boys were arrested today by Officers Hoopell and Trimmer after they had been traced to a rooming-house at the corner of Second street and White avenue.

The story which the men told of having been discharged from service and then coming to the Coast to get a job was not substantiated by evidence found on them by the officers.

In the pocket of one of the lads was a ticket showing that he had checked a parcel in the San Francisco Y.M.C.A., while in the possession of the other lad were articles indicating that he, too, was from the San Francisco section. They are being held for investigation.

Police Believe Leighton Had Large Sum Hidden When Murdered Here.

A sensational and successful bank robbery in the Middle West and a number of crimes preceding it were the events that led to the slaying here last Friday of "Albert Norwood," in real life Lee Thomas Leighton.

This information, traveling through the underground channels of the underworld, reached the detectives working on the case yesterday, and for the first time promised to supply the much-needed details of Leighton's life in the past few years, from which the detectives must, by a process of elimination, select possible suspects.

Independently of this phase of the case, the detectives have been trying to locate the place where Leighton had hidden a large sum of money the officers believe he had in this city. The man's bank account has been found, but it was a very small one, and does not, the officers say, represent his possessions. The recovery of the bank account yesterday was one step in the long list of details Detective Cline, Winn and Taylor must check before reaching the solution of the crime, and with it it is expected—expose a rank of criminals seldom surpassed in fact or fiction.

INQUEST IS HELD.

The inquest over Leighton's body failed to disclose anything material in the way of clues. Mrs. Leighton, who is believed by the police to know more than she has disclosed did not take the witness stand when the body was examined.

PAWN TICKET CLEW.

Police men for several days have been attempting to join the mysterious spotting of William A. Mead on the night of December 14 with the slaying of Leighton, reported that no connection could be found. Detective Taylor is now trying to trace some jewelry that was pawned a short time before the slaying of Leighton, by a person who gave Leighton's address. He thinks it may have been secured in a burglary.

NO EIGHT-HOUR BAN FOR THEM.

Women Clerks in Offices of County Outside Law, Says Council in Ruling.

Female employees in the County Auditor, Tax Collector and Assessor's departments may be legally permitted to work more than eight hours a day, according to an opinion sent yesterday by Deputy County Counsel Davis to the Board of Supervisors.

In other words, the women working in these departments may be paid for overtime, if they desire to work extra hours. The Supervisors have heretofore discouraged overtime, but under the ruling of the County Counsel the ordinance covering the matter will be amended to conform.

WINS DIVORCE AFTER EDICT AGAINST ROUGE.

Mrs. Mary D. Solomon was granted a divorce from a J. P. Solomon by Judge Tait yesterday. She admitted that most of her quarrels were over a bottle of rouge, but said that the charge her husband made was without foundation. She was over the use of rouge and tooth paste by Mrs. Solomon and her daughter.

James J. Webber, a tire dealer in Bakerfield, filed for bankruptcy in the U. S. District Court yesterday, giving his debts as $519.88 and his assets as $89.

HEALTH OFFICIAL ON THE WAR
Crusade is Being Against Violent in Public

The epidemic of colds sweeping the country has led health officials to start an educational campaign showing the dangerous effects of sneezing in public.

"Check your sneeze!" is a public health slogan which is being put into effect to check the epidemic of colds and influenza.

A prominent feature of the campaign is the education of the public in the necessity of treating every cold promptly. If it is declared that sneezing in public will give relief in a cold, the patient can remain in the work.

The treatment recommended is a compound of Aspirin, Quinine, Salt, Caffeine and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Every one who has a box on hand will find it a life saver in case of colds, fevers, etc.

It is taken two hours apart, one capsule at a time, with water or milk.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is not a patent medicine, but when setting it is the best remedy for colds, fevers, etc.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is sold at 25 cents per box in all drug stores.—(Advertisement.)
